A $10,000 PRIVATE DINNER.

FAREWELL OF THE BRADLEY-MARTINS TO NEW YORK.

A Magnificent Meal Which Cost $116.28 per Plate, Set on an Oval 20x76 Feet.

NONE BUT VERY RICH PRESENT

Perhaps few of THE HERALD's readers ever heard of a ten-thousand-dollar private dinner, and fewer still who have ever sat down to one. To give them an idea of what such an affair is like, we give the following account from the New York World of a big function which took place in that city last week:

The Bradley-Martins took their formal and final farewell of New York society last night at the Waldorf-Astoria. They took it in the form of a dinner to eighty-six persons—a regal affair that cost $10,000, or, to be matter-of-fact, $116.28 a plate. It went off in a blaze of glory—viands, wines, flowers, music, service, all were perfect. The cream of the smart set alone were present. It was no promiscuous function, like the famous fancy dress ball of several seasons ago.

Dawn began the $10,000 dinner or rather, the preparation for it. Half the greenhouses in the vicinity were being ransacked for their choicest blooms. Mrs. Bradley-Martin had decided on the color herself. It was to be all pink and white; after that Mr. Boldt, proprietor of the hotel, was to have carte blanche.

The table had to be made especially. It was twenty feet broad and seventy-six feet long—a huge oval that nearly filled the exquisite Astor Gallery on the drawing-room floor, where the dinner was laid. Table linen of enormous size was procured and laid on the great table. Then came the decorating, which took an army of florists all day long.

What the chosen few beheld when they entered the dining hall at 8 p. m. was like fairyland. Chiefest of all was the wondrous table, set with the Waldorf-Astoria's finest service of silver and glass—not just plain cut-glass and silver plate, but glass all gold and prisms and solid silver of the choicest design.

It was a late dinner. The guests were bidden for 8 p. m., but it was half after the hour before the last of them arrived. First to appear were Mr. and Mrs. I. Townsend Burden, last was Miss Gerry, much flustered, for fear she was late.

Mrs. Bradley-Martin and Mr. Bradley-Martin were ready to receive the first of the arrivals. All the carriages were ordered to drive up to the side entrance on Thirty-fourth street, where two flunkies guarded the private door, which led to the Astor gallery and the reception room, which had been cut off from the rest of the hotel.

Half a dozen more, in immaculate uniforms, bowed the guests up the red-carpeted stairs, where wraps and coats were laid aside and where as many more of the immaculate ones bowed the guests along to the East room. There the host and hostess received their guests, and from there they passed along into the Myrtle room, which opens into the Astor gallery.

In that medium sized room, just as the clock tinkled the half hour, stood a company of eighty-six persons, whose total wealth was more than most men can grasp. There were a dozen men who have $10,000,000 or more, and twice as many with $5,000,000. Of the forty old men, not a half a dozen were not millionaires.

There were gowns that spoke of Paris ransacked. There were diamonds enough for an emperor's ransom and to spare. There were enough diamond crowns to fit out all the crowned heads of Europe and have some over for Asia and Africa. There were necklaces worth $100,000 apiece on several white throats. It was a delirium of wealth and an idyl of luxury and magnificence.

Among the last to hurry in was Senator Chauncey M. Depew. When he ever caught sight of him, Mrs. Bradley-Martin hit a little sigh of relief escaped her. Then she was all smiles. Oscar, the Waldorf-Astoria's majordomo and master of ceremonies, stood in the hallway without. He whispered something to a waiter, the lights were turned on, the great ivory-white doors thrown open and the banquet hall displayed. Behind a bank of palms a hidden orchestra of strings and flutes struck up softly "The Coronation March."

Mrs. Bradley Martin turned to Senator Depew.

"Senator," said she, "shall we go in to dinner?"

Senator Depew held out his arm in gallant style, and, with Mrs. Bradley Martin leaning tightly on it, led the way into the great room, shimmering softly in the pink of a thousand tiny candles. The rest of the guests—to each woman an escort had been assigned—sauntered in as they pleased, and Mr. Bradley-Martin, with Mrs. James P. Kernochan on his arm, brought up the rear.

There was a card at each place; it was not hard for the guests to find their duly appointed seats. Mrs. Bradley-Martin and Senator Depew sat directly in the middle of one side of the oval and Mr. Bradley-Martin and Mrs. Kernochan on the othe side, facing them. Host and hostess thus spent an hour conversation that they should sit at the head and foot of the table.

It was like fairyland then. In a twinkling half a hundred silent-footed waiters were busy—the same appeared as if by magic, and the $10,000 dinner was on.

Never did diners see tables decorated with more splendor. There have been costlier decorations in the end of winter, when roses cost $1 apiece, but none more elaborate than this. The great broad oval, stretching from one end of the room to the other, was simply a bank of flowers.

Sweet peas and white lilacs; that was the scheme of decoration. Great round masses of the pink sweet peas were set in front of each plate, making a pink oval within the white one. Flanking them were great bunches of white lilacs, set in glass vases—truly a combination of color and odor that spoke of springtime. There was more, too, that told of budding green and woods thick with blossoms—the dogwood boughs.

Here and there in all the room and all the spaces between the windows and doors were heavily set with palms, but the beautiful sprays of white dogwood blooms masked them in turn. The room looked like a fairy arbor.

Ball torches were not all. There were the candles, hundreds of them, rising tier upon tier, to the centre of the great table, all screened with soft pink shades covered with fluffy silk. The outside row of candles was small, the middle row was larger, but the inside back of them rose in stately splendor in silver candelabra four feet tall. It was the softest light in the world and the soft tinkle of glass and silver and the lively chatter of the guests.

Course followed course, each more delicious than its predecessor. With the soups incense was asserted. Mrs. Bradley-Martin was beaming now and held up her sherry glass with a smile to her husband across the twenty-feet of flowers and linen. He smiled to return.

Softly all the while came the music from the Waldorf-Astoria orchestra, hidden behind its screen of palms. The waiters were nimble; it seemed all too soon when the desert was reached, but it was 11 p. m. The orchestra still played on, however, and many stayed to see the supper music and chat awhile.

There were liqueurs and brandy for the men, and cigars, while the woman adjourned to the Myrtle room and chatted. Mrs. Bradley-Martin and her husband took their leave of the East Room once more—the signal that the dinner was at an end, and time to say "good-by."

Many old soldiers now feel the effects of the hard service they endured during the war. Mr. Geo. S. Anderson, of Rossville, York county, Penn., who saw the hardest kind of service at the front, is now frequently troubled with rheumatism. "I had a severe attack lately," he says, "and procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It did so much good that I would like to know what you would charge me for one dozen bottles." Mr. Anderson wanted it both for his own use and to supply it to his friends and neighbors, as every family should have a bottle of it in their home, not only for rheumatism, but lame back, sprains, swellings, outs, bruises and burns, for which it is unequalled. WILLING TO HELP

Pe-ru-na has been making friends of this kind for many years. It cures catarrh wherever located.

Mrs. R. Eades, 1008 Twenty-eighth St., Detroit, Mich., is one of the many thousand of Pe-ru-na's friends. This lawsuit she says to Dr. Hartman:

"We have used your Pe-ru-na with the most remarkable results and would be without it. We have always recommended it to our friends. A few years ago I purchased a bottle of your Pe-ru-na and after seeing its results, recommended it to my grocer, who was troubled with dyspepsia, the curing of which induced her to sell it in her store. She has sold large amounts of it. My daughter has just been cured of jaundice with Pe-ru-na. My pen would grow weary were I to begin to tell you of the numerous cures Pe-ru-na has effected in our immediate vicinity within the last couple of years."

Dr. Hartman, President of the Surgical Hotel, Columbus, Ohio, will counsel and prescribe for fifty thousand women this year free of charge. Every suffering woman should write for special question blank for woman, and have Dr. Hartman's book, "Health and Beauty." All druggists sell Pe-ru-na.

About Girls.

There are girls and girls. One is the girl who appears best at home, who helps her mother, and takes unfinished tasks from the tired hands that falter at their work. She is a cheerful and congenial companion, and all her friends and relatives learn to regard her as a little saint comforter. The other girl is the one who is for others work for her.

"I just hate housework," she says, "and I let ma do most of it."

"You make your own bed of course?" says her friend.

"Well, no; ma makes the beds, generally. I haven't the strength."

"Don't you dust the parlor?"

"Oh, no; ma says I break the ornaments when I dust, so she prefers to do it herself."

"Who washes the dishes?"

"Ma does, or sister Jenny. It makes my hands red and red hands looke so horrid when you are playing the piano."

"And you don't do anything?"

"Oh, yes, I do. I do the shopping. That's such a help to ma, you can't think. Then I receive all the company, because ma is so tired after supper, she says it's no use to bed right off, and it would be cruel to keep her up. Ma says I am lots of help to her."

Which of these girls are you?

Who Is To Blame.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys.

If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, and it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

If the adult has rheumatism; pain or dull aches in the back; the water passes in irregular quantities; or at irregular intervals or has a bad odor; if it stains the linen or vessel the color of rust; if the feet swell; if there are puffy or dark circles under the eyes; your kidneys are the cause and need doctoring. Treatment of some diseases may be delayed without danger, but so with kidney disease.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, promptly cures the most distressing cases. Its mild and extraordinary effect is soon realized. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one dollar size. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet telling all about it sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Strawberry Shortcake.

Mrs. W. A. Johnson, of Paris, Ky., is famous far beyond the boundaries of her native State as an authority on cookery. Those who have been fortunate enough to enjoy the products of her culinary skill, say that none of her creations is more deliciously inviting than her strawberry shortcake—and this the season for it. Here is Mrs. Jonson's recipe:

Strawberry Shortcake—Put two quarts of ripped berries in a colander and pour cold water over them. Reserve a few of the choicest ones to be used as a garnish. Cut the others in halves and mix with a cup and a half of sugar. Set in a warm place for an hour or two.

Make a soft dough of two cups of sifted flour, three full teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one third cup of butter, one egg, three fourths of a cup of sweet milk, one half teaspoonful of salt. Divide the dough and roll into two pieces to fit a round pan. Spread the layers with softened butter, place one on top of the other and bake 15 minutes. When done pull the layers apart and put in a layer of sweetened berries between and another on top. Serve in a round platter with whipped cream and fresh berries. A border of fresh strawberry leaves around the edges adds to the appearance of the dish.

If "Out of Sorts," error and peevish, take Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine. Cheerfulness will return and life acquires new zest. m

SPANISH METHODS PRACTICED.

OLD SPANISH LAWS OF CUBA STILL IN VOGUE.

The American Flag Floats Over the Island but Old Methods Still Prevail.

A PLEA FROM A MAN WHO KNOWS.

The Times, of Cuba, gives the following account of conditions there:

Three years ago the same man who is now the editor of the Times of Cuba was imprisoned in Morro Castle. He was arrested by the military authorities who were then serving under the flamboyant standard of Spain. He never knew what charge there was against him, he never saw his accusers, nor did he have any trial that would be considered a trial in the United States. But he was placed in a cell in the Morro Castle and there confined, with fifteen others, for a space of two weeks.

Then were was an American Consul in Havana, a man sent here by the Washington Government to represent Americans and American interests. His name was Fitzhugh Lee, and he was a man who knew full well his duty regarding the protection of American citizens. He arrived in Havana the very same day that the man who is now editing this paper was arrested in Artemisa, imprisoned in a church, subsequently bound with cords and sent to this city.

Gen. Lee did not wait for any piteous appeal from the imprisoned American, but upon paying his respects to Capt. Gen. Weyler, he informed him that an American citizen was imprisoned and simply requested that he be given a speedy trial. Weyler promised. Fitzhugh Lee did not stop here, but urged upon Gen. Weyler to keep his promise, and when it was ascertained that there was no cause for the American's imprisonment, he insisted upon his liberty and obtained it.

To-day there is no American Consul in Havana, no one to appeal to for protection, and although the Spanish flag has gone and the American flag floats in its place, the laws which Judge Caesar carried into Spain a thousand years ago still exist, and so do the same Spanish Judges who executed the laws under Capt. Gen. Weyler.

Under Gen. Weyler the American citizen had some one to look out for his interests and demands, notwithstanding the existing laws of a playedout old monarchy, a speedy trial and justice. It was owing in a measure to these oppressive laws that a great people rose up and demanded Spain to withdraw her power from the island.

Spain's power is now gone, and her place is now taken by the Americans. But the American, strange to say, has kept her same antiquated laws, her same old Judges and code of procedure which allows a man to be locked up on the complaint of any old tramp, thrown into jail and kept from friends and relatives for months, perhaps for years, without even knowing who his accusers were. We can pity poor old Spain, for she did not know any better, but what can we say of our great and glorious country, which must certainly know better? And then, in the good old days of Spanish rule we had a Consul here to represent our interests, but to-day we have only the military authorities, with authority from that great Government of ours to watch only the interests of the Cubans. And who are these Cubans? The same Cubans who collected the tax for Spain; the same Judges still hold their appointments from the King of Spain; the same lawyers who prosecuted under the laws of Spain, and for the most part the same smugglers who smuggled under Spain. And where are the Cubans we came to liberate? We have seen a few on the police force, going around with big guns and shooting the first man they were afraid of. We have seen a few in the custom house and a few holding fat jobs in the various departments; a few in Cerro, who call themselves the Assembly and enacted the United States roundly for not giving them millions of dollars, and a few more lounging in the pavilions at Quints de los Molleos, waiting for the Government to find the army to which they have promised that $3,000,000.

In the meantime Americans are not encouraged to develop the island with their industry and thrift. Capital will not come here, and the farce goes on of trying to establish an American Government in a fertile island capable of sustaining 15,000,000 people, where to-day there exist barely more than 500,000, the majority of whom are illiterate negroes, as little capacitated for self-government as their ancestors in Africa.

Mitchell & Bro., Beaver Dam; M. S. Eaglund, Rosine. m

The Georgia Lynching.

[H. G. Martin, in Harper's Weekly.]

What-ever any Northern reader may feel about the burning of the negro Sim Hose and the lynching of the negro preacher Strickland, in Georgia, one thing he should always bear in mind, that there is no vital difference between the white man in the South and the white man in the North, and that what white men do in Georgia white men from New York, or Massachusetts, or Minnesota would probably do in Georgia under similar circumstances. A county in Georgia went stark crazy over Sam Hose. Northern readers cannot understand it. A letter has come to the Weekly from a Georgia woman which tells a story of Sam Hose's crime as Georgia understands it. It is hardly a letter that the Weekly may print, but it may all be believed, and it helps to an understanding of what has happened. No man who believed what this woman believes and has written about Hose and strickland and negroes of their class in the South, would be surprised at anything that might follow such a crime as Hose committed. It may be that nothing can justify such an orgy as was held over Hose, but there is plenty that can explain it. The men and women of the South believe that certain unruly negroes can only be restrained from horrible crimes against white women by swift and terrible punishment. We of the North have little experience of these crimes, but our blood circulates, and we know what sort of dispositions such crimes arouse. To read the story of Sam Hose's crime as the Georgia correspondent has written it, bezets absolute indifference to that negro's sufferings or fate. It fills the mind with horror, and makes one feel that any means that is effectual to prevent such crimes is justified. One forgets the monstrousness of the Sam Hose lynching, and only wonders whether it was expedient.

Soon to Be Out of Debt.

The people of the Providence district, Webster county, are congratulating themselves that they have only one more paymeut to make on the compromise settlement of the railroad debts of the district and that the mill that has hung over the district for so long will be lifted.

To the Citizens of Kentucky.

The annual Commercial Convention of the State of Kentucky will be held in the city of Louisville, Monday and Tuesday, May 29th and 30th.

The purpose for which this Convention is called should enlist the interest of every Kentuckian. It is solely for the promotion of the material welfare of our Commonwealth. It is strictly non-political. All of our ablest men are now invited to come together to take counsel as to how to best promote Kentucky's material interest in all of its branches.

The programme for the Convention has been partially prepared. The subjects chosen for discussion are of practical and general importance. Distinguished speakers from different Sections of the State have been invited to introduce these subjects, and every one present will be invited to take part in the discussion to follow.

Let us make a united effort to keep Kentucky abreast of the most enterprising and favored of the States of the Union. Let us come together to discuss the best mes to make of the advantages which we possess, and give out the information as to those advantages to the whole country, so that the knowledge may redound to her prosperity—an increase in her wealth, and in thrift, by population.

Respectfully,
JOHN W. YERKES, Chairman.

Some Queer Claims.

Some queer claims are made against the Government. A Chicago man named Taylor asked Congress for several sessions to give him $100,000 for having suggested to President Lincoln the idea of issuing greenbacks. One Colonel de Arnaud made repeated demands for $50,000 for having shown General Grant how to capture the city of Vicksburg, Ky. An Iowa man wanted $350 for emptying some oil sailors and soldiers during the rebellion; another from New York wanted $35 for a pair of trousers which were eaten off a clothes line by a Government goat; a fellow in Minnesota requested the sum of $350 for a sky-blue horse taken by the soldiers; the sum of $50 would satisfy an Illinois man for a calf which he says the cattle inspector killed by mistake, and so the list through its nose, causing blood poison. There are many just such claims coming from every State in the Union.

Pimples, Boils and other Humors appear when the blood gets impure. The best remedy is Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine. m

A Sad Truth.

[Chicago Post.]

In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love," he said.

She sighed and shook her head.

"That's the trouble," she replied. "They turn lightly instead of seriously."

For she was a girl who had been through several spring engagements.

TWO VERDICTS.

She was a woman, worn and thin,
Whom the world condemned for a single sin;
They cast her out on the King's highway
And passed her by as they want to pray.

He was a man, and more to blame,
But the world spared him a breath of shame;
Beneath his feet he saw her lie,
But raised his head and passed her by.

They were the people who went to pray
At the temple of God on a holy day.
They scorned the woman, forgave the man;
It were ever thus since the world began.

Time passed on and the woman died;
On the Cross of Shame she was crucified,
But the world was stern and would not yield,
And they hurled her in the potter's field.

The man died, too, and they hurled him to a casket of cloth with a silver rim,
And said, as they turned from his grave away,
"We have hurled an honest man to day."

* * * * * * *

Two mortals knocking at Heaven's gate,
Asked face to face to inquire their fate.
He carried a passport with earthly sign,
But she had a pardon from Love Divine.

O! ye who judge 'twixt virtue and vice,
Which, think you, entered to Paradise?
Not he who the world had said would win,
For the woman alone was ushered in.

Covered Buttons.

[Harper's Bazar.]

The first maker of covered buttons was Mrs. Samuel Williston, of East Hampton, Massachusetts. In early life her husband prepared for the ministry, but, his eyesight failing, he was compelled to give up all study and support himself. He opened a general country store, and his wife gave a great deal of attention to e notion-counter. One winter day, in 1836, she was sorting her stock, when it (suddenly occurred to her to cover some of the wooden buttons, then in general use, with cloth.

They attracted much attention among the customers of the little shop, and were finally known to all the neighboring towns, and became very popular. Williston and his wife contrived machinery to do the work, the first ever employed in America. An immense manufactory sprang up, and made half the covered buttons of the world, and Williston died worth several millions. And the source of all this wealth originated with a bright New England woman.

A Verdict for $14,000.

HARDINSBURG, KY., May 18.—The case of Thomas B. Chandler's administrator vs. the Louisville, Henderson and St. Louis Railway Company, which was completed to-day by the jury finding a verdict for $14,000 against the def n'd t, attracted a great deal attention and interest. The judgment is the largest ever rendered in a similar case in Breckinridge county. The plaintiff was represented by Messrs & Mannay, of Hardinsburg, and Col. Bennett H. Young, of Louisville, while the defendant had Col. D. R. Murray, of Cloverport, and the Hon. Chapeo Walhen, of Owensboro. The case was fought with great vigor on both sides.

Chandler was the son of Rev. J. S. Chandler, the well known Methodist preacher. He was acting as brakeman and was killed by a derailment of the train at Sinking Creek on April 3, 1898, and it was claimed that the accident was caused by overloading some cars with ties.

The case will be appealed.

RUNNING SORE ON HIS ANKLE.

After Six Years of Intense Suffering, Promptly Cured By S. S. S.

Obstinate sores and ulcers which refuse to heal under ordinary treatment soon become chronic and deep-seated, and are a sure sign that the entire circulation is in a depraved condition. They are a severe drain upon the system, and are constantly sapping away the vitality. In every case the poison must be eliminated from the blood, and no amount of external treatment can have any effect.

There is no uncertainty about the merits of S. S. S.; every claim made for it is backed up strongly by convincing testimony of those who have been cured by it and know of its virtues by experience.

Mr. L. J. Clark, of Orange Courthouse, Va., writes:

"For six years I had an ulcer on my ankle, which at times caused me intense suffering. I was so disabled for a long while that I was wholly unfit for business. One of the best doctors treated me constantly, but did me no good. I then tried various blood remedies, without the least benefit. S. S. S. was so highly recommended that I concluded to try it, and the effect was wonderful. It seemed to get right at the seat of the disease and force the poison out, and I was soon completely cured." WEDNESDAY, MAY 24.

VICTORIA, Queen of England and Empress of India, is eighty years old to day.

MUCH of the discontent of the day is caused by too many men wanting easy jobs at a good salary, which will afford them an early retirement on full pay.

ADMIRAL DEWEY is now on his way to the United States. The itinerary of his trip is known to no one save himself and the date of his arrival in this country can only be guessed.

ANOTHER elixir of life has been discovered by a country physician from Green City, Mo. This time the fluid of youth is secured from the goat. It is expected that a person's life may be prolonged to more than twice the usual age by the injection of these life cells, or lymph.

MUCH protected wool is being exported from this country at present to be sold under the pauper wool of Europe. The Republican managers are endeavoring, however, to retain a sufficient quantity—of the thick variety—to pull over the eyes of the people during next year's Presidential campaign.

THE State Commercial Convention meets in Louisville next Monday and Tuesday. Every citizen of Ohio county who can possibly do so, should attend. It is to promote the welware of the whole State, and our county is one of the largest and most important of the Commonwealth, and we badly need the good such a meeting will do us.

THE editors of the Republican, very content with having themselves called "little jackass editors"—just so a great preacher does it—are willing to rest with this fitting appellation over their heads, provided they can also stigmatize THE HERALD man. It does not need Rev. Jones' remarks, however, to verify the class to which they belong. Amid waving ears and braying voices, THE HERALD man is compelled to acknowledge the source of the kick he received.

MR. SAM J. ROBERTS, editor of the Lexington Leader, which is considered the administration organ in Kentucky, undertakes to pour oil on the troubled waters, and announces that President McKinley, Mark Hanna, et al., have no choice in the Republican gubernatorial race in Kentucky. He disclaims any intention of the Washington hosses to champion the candidacy of Attorney General Taylor. Mr. Roberts' remarks sound very nice and kind, and all that, but his voice in the Republican wrangle in Kentucky will be like a whisper in a hurricane.

SENOR PALMA, who was at the head of the Cuban junta here, and who is perhaps as thoroughly familiar with Cuban life and conditions as any man living, says Cuba will some day be one of the United States. He thinks it will come as a matter of evolution, when her people learn the lessons of self-government, and acquire that reverence for law and order which prevails throughout all highly civilized countries. He believes the Cuban people will volunteerily ask annexation. The spirit in the Island does not certainly point to this conclusion now, but his is a voice of prophecy which will probably not go entirely unverified.

THE doctors of the State were in session at Louisville last week and one among the first subjects they discussed was the treatment of cerebro spinal meningitis. It was the consensus of opinion that there is no cure for this deadly disease known at present. The best that any doctor can do is to undertake to relieve the pain of the sufferer and patiently await results, using his best efforts to divert the progress of the disease. The remedies vary widely. The disciples of Æsculapius decided, however, to hand themselves together in a solid compact and camp on the trail of this fearful malady until some antidote or cure is discovered.

IF there is anything that needs investigating badly, it is the manner in which the express companies of the country make their charges. It seems to be the custom of these carriers to hold up the helpless citizen and compel him to pay almost any old price that comes to mind, before he is allowed possession of the goods addressed to him. Their charges in some instances are high beyond all reason. No matter what the charges are, the citizen has no recourse, but is compelled to submit and meekly pay the price. Under just what system their charges are guaged, is not generally known or understood. The people would like some relief in this matter, and these great corporations are invited to a consideration of the interests of their customers.

PRESIDENT MCKINLEY has been in an awful predicement of late. Not satisfied with inventing a new and very asthetic handshake, and also setting the male part of the fashionable world all agog over his fad of having his trousers creased from the knee down-ward, he has longed to play golf. To play or not to play, has been the question. Hot from the massage treatment of a Western health resort, he feels as spry as a colt and his soul longs for a chance to chase the festive ball with a shinny-stick. But he is afraid the people will think he is getting too gay. Let go, William—on to the links! The sober element of the people may not endorse your kittenish ways, but enjoy life while you can, for next fall a year, you know, is election.

READING of the $116.28 a-plate private dinner given by the Bradley-Martins of New York as a great farewell function, the wife of one of the laboring men of that city said:

If the Bradley-Martins went to give a $116.28 a-plate dinner they have a right to do so, and I wish them all luck and happiness. That same night we sat down to a dinner, the cost of which was only two cents a plate. Little as we had, we were happy.

No doubt the members of the family that sat down to the two cents-a-plate dinner were really more contented and happy in their enjoyment of life than the partakers of the great money kings' feast. Riches and ostentation do not always insure happiness, and perhaps beneath that show of tinsel and gold there were many hearts riven with the anguish of disappointment and discontent. The happiness of the first party was only momentary, if at all, while that of the two cent grade is continuous—an every day affair.

IN an address before the Council of the Episcopal Diocese of Kentucky, at Louisville last week, Rev. W. Dudley Powers enunciated some striking truths. The pith of his talk was a powerful arraignment of the church of this country for its indulgence of luxury in various forms. It seems, he said, that no church is thought complete nowadays unless it is gorgeously ornamented and provided with the most luxurious appointments. He declared that it was plain to be seen why the church had not fulfilled its purpose, because it had denied spreading the gospel abroad in a vain effort to maintain a costly dignity at home. Church appearance is regarded as everything, while heart religion and the saving of souls is estimated as of secondary importance. His remarks were received with much interest and apply to many localities, especially the large cities.

FOR information direct and reliable in regard to the Philippines, it would seem that nobody is prepared to give such advice more knowingly than Admiral Dewey. And yet he has been strangely silent. He has sent back no word encouraging the war of extermination being prosecuted in that country. He has not said the Filipinos were incapacitated for self-government. He has given our administration leaders no encouragement whatever for their stand taken in the Philippines. And yet Dewey knows. Being present in person, he is certainly familiar with the true conditions prevailing there. It is evident that Dewey sees the hopelessness of the situation, but he is discreet enough to remain silent. The problem of the Philippines is still far from being solvable. It would perhaps be well if President McKinley would leave the matter entirely with Admiral Dewey.

JUDGE PRATT is finding that he will hardly be carried to success on flowery beds of ease in his race for the Republican nomination for Governor. He has run up against the machine, and the indications are that a few feathers are lost. The Judge is discovering what many another man has found out long ago—that it is one thing to be told by your friends what a suitable man you are for a place and what a winning candidate you would make and all those nice things, but quite another thing to find yourself actually in the race and encountering serious opposition. Then a fellow finds out that there are others in whose regard he does not occupy the highest consideration and the cold stream of malice and hatred and envy begins to flow down his back. Judge Pratt is a man of modest demeanor and courtly manners, and although he has been a candidate before in a small way, yet he is not used to the buzz-saw experience a man gets in running for a high State office. Judge Pratt is a clever man, but it is not in his horoscope to head his party ticket next fall.

I have been a sufferer from chronic diarrhoea ever since the war and have used all kinds of medicines for it. KILLED BY HIS SON.

The Sad Fate of a Well Known Daviess County Man---Accidentally Shot.

Jacob Young, one of the most substantial farmers in Daviess county, was accidentally shot in the leg just below the knee Friday about 12:30 o'clock by his youngest son, William, and died from loss of blood at 6 o'clock in the evening, says the Owensboro Messenger. William Young was in the yard of his father's residence, shooting birds in a cherry tree with a shot gun. He had just shot both barrels and was reloading. Unobserved to him, his father walked around to the tree to pick up the birds. The gun was a breech-loader and the young man put two shells in the barrels. One of the barrels would not stand cocked very well, and when the gun was breched the jar caused the hammer to descend and exploded the cartridge. Mr. Young was about six feet away and the charge took effect in his leg just below the knee, tearing away the flesh. The other members of the family ran to where he was and after considerable delay succeeded in getting him inside of the house and in bed.

Dr. Woolfolk, the nearest physician, lived about three miles away and a man was sent on a horse to go for him. Dr. Lockhart was also telephoned for, but owing to the distance it was nearly an hour before Dr. Woolfork arrived at the house. He found Mr. Young in a dying condition from the excessive loss of blood.

The wound was dressed, but little hope was entertained for his recovery from the first. Dr. Lockhart arrived soon afterward, and the two physicians did all in their power to aid him, but the time that elapsed between the accident and the arrival of the physicians had been too great and he died at 6 o'clock surrounded by his grief-stricken family.

William Young, the innocent cause of the accident, was beside himself with grief, and did not know that his father had walked around to the tree while he was reloading the gun.

Jacob Young was one of the thriftiest and most substantial farmers in the county. He lived just above the Yellow creek bridge on the L., H. and St. L. railroad. He was a German, and well known in both city and county. He was one of the largest tobacco raisers that sell on the local market, and his product was eagerly sought after by the dealers at top prices.

He leaves a wife and seven children, three girls and four boys. His two oldest sons are married, but the other children all lived at the home place.

Hanged Himself Under His Girl's Window.

OMAHA, NEB., May 20.—It required the united efforts of two big policemen to prevent Henry Christenson, the rejected sweetheart of pretty Anna Smith, hanging himself on the front porch of the young lady's residence. Twice did the desperate fellow climb upon the porch, and tying a rope in front of the girl's window, place a noose around his neck and leap into space, and twice did the girl cut him down. The third time was too much for her patience, and she called the police just in time to avoid having to save her lover's life a third time.

So violently did the man struggle with the officers that they were forced to lock him up. Both the girl and the man were finally taken to the station. With a pout Miss Smith said, addressing the desk officer:

"I don't love Henry any more and he knows why, but I don't want him hanging himself right before my front window. I want you to either lock him up or station an officer under my window so he can't kill himself there. Than I want you to send an officer and cut down that horrid rope that Henry fastened to the porch."

Christenson is a cashier for Swift & Co., and Miss Smith is a stenographer of nonsmal beauty. Last night the lovers quarreled, after having been engaged to be married. This morning the people of the Smith residence were aroused by the hysterical screams of Miss Smith while she ont her lover down as he was strangling to death under her window. She was attracted to him by his groans.

He left after receiving, but on being later was was found hanging again as before. When taken to the station the neck of the desperate man was torn and bleeding.

The Verdict Set Aside.

HARDINSBURG, KY., May 20.—On motion of the defendant, Judge Bell set aside the verdict of $14,000 damages in favor of Chandler's administrator, and granted the railroad a new trial. The Judge gave quite a lengthy opinion saying the jury was led by prejudice and passion, and stated that he had thought strongly of giving peremptory instructions to the jury in favor of the railroad. The judge also censured Col. Bennett H. Young for his conduct and pleading before the jury, and said part of his speech constituted grounds for a new trial. The case will cause a bitter legal fight at the October term of Circuit Court.

It is better to preserve health than to cure disease. Therefore keep your blood pure with Hood's Sarsaparilla and be always well.

Arc for W. F. Long.

The Senatorial Committee met at Beaver Dam and set the time and place for the meeting of the district convention. All the committeemen were represented at the meeting except Mr. Newt. Belcher, of Muhlenberg. The meeting was a very enthusiastic and harmonious one, and it was plainly seen that Col. Fred Long was the committee's choice of the candidates. Muhlenberg should instruct for Long, he being the ablest of the candidates.

It is, by the usual rotation, Butler county's time to furnish the Senator and they have two or three candidates. Some have carelessly said: "Oh, whatever Butler does is all right." Let us see about that. Ohio county offered a Senator Taylor. It was her time to furnish the Senator. Muhlenberg county stood by Ohio county. What did Butler do?—instructed for Hon. E. D. Gaby, when Ohio county had refused to endorse.

No doubt in our mind as to the ability and qualification of Col. W. Fred Long and nothing but a ringmade candidate can defeat him, and Muhlenberg now asks Ohio and Butler to do their duty.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. Whooping Cough.

I had a little boy who was nearly dead from an attack of whooping cough. My neighbors recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I did not think that any medicine would help him, but after giving him a few doses I could see that I noticed an improvement, and one bottle cured him entirely. It is the best cough medicine I ever had in the house.—J. L. Moore, South Bargettstown, Pa. For sale by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro., druggists, Hartford, Ky. m

Harper's Bazar contains a handsome portrait of the Duchess of Arcos, who was Virginia Woodbury Lowery, of Washington, D. C. The romantic courtship began over twenty years ago, when the duke was Count Brunetti, of the Spanish Legation in Washington. The engagement lasted eighteen years, and the marriage took place at New London in 1895.

An effort is being made to build a new church home for the Methodist denomination at Beaver Dam. It is a most worthy enterprise and deserves much encouragement. The Methodists have no church house at the above named place at all, and such a building would not only be of great service to all good people, but a valuable addition to the town.

Rev. T. M. Morton, of Centertown, has bought from Mr. S. W. Rowen, of Livermore, a fine dwelling house in the latter town and will move his family there about August 1. The consideration was $2,000 cash. This is the home built by Hon. Arke Bourn, Jr., in 1892 at a cost of over $12,000 and was sold at public sale by Arkenburg in June, 1894, Mr. Rowan being the purchaser. It is said to be the most expensive dwelling in McLean county.

Dewey is Rich, Anyhow.

[Interior Journal.]

The proposition to raise $250,000 for a home and annuity for Dewey, is the play of a newspaper for popular favor. Besides his prize money, which amounted to many thousands of dollars, he gets $15,000 a year, and will continue to get his pay after his retirement. A contribution for his benefit is therefore like greasing e fat sow. Those who want to take part in such business can do so; as for us we shall save our money for e more needy object.

All the cases set on the 6th day were continued except

Com'th. vs. Henry Vidito—law and facts to the court and fined $50.

Com'th. vs. Ben Burgess—charged with robbery—verdict of jury guilty of taking property without feloniens intent and fined $25. Fine suspended for sixty days and defendant released from custody.

Com'th. vs. Joe Pierce, &c.,charged with unlawfully detaining e woman against her will—re-referred and the grand jury failed to re-indict Sam Bennett, John Campbell, Will Kelley, Will Engler, Delmer Justis, James Pearman, Geo. Calloway, Frick Andrews, Tom Watkins and Jack Andrews. Joe Pierce being dead the case was abated as to him, but the grand jury returned an indictment in lieu of the other charge against John Shaver, William Fisher, Geo. W. Anderson and Eb Andrews charging them with rape. The case of John Shaver is set down for trial to-morrow morning.

The first named ten parties who were indicted with the last four named parties at the November 1898 term of court charged with detaining a woman against her will, were released, because upon a closer examination into the facts it was ascertained that they did not commit any part of the outrage. The only part they had in the matter was that of spectators. We are truly glad to know that they were not guilty as charged, for we were personally acquainted with some of the parties and know them to be of good parentage. We admonish them to never in the future be like "dog trey" caught in such bad company.

Com'th. vs. Will Glover for murder—verdict of the jury guilty and his punishment fixed at confinement in the penitentiary for the period of his natural life.

Com'th. vs. Tom Griffin—charged with the murder of Ben Carter, verdict of the jury not guilty.

COL. WOODFORD'S JOKE.

H. C. Baker, in the Adair County News, writes interestingly of Col. Frank Wolford's prowess on the political stump.

Wolford, he said, was full of resources on the stump, and was always composed and self-poised. If he lost his balance or felt "shaky," no one could detect it. He could not be turned down upon a question of fact, and he never needed a fact to sustain his position.

In war a soldier sometimes pushes his cap in view to draw the fire of the enemy. Wolford used the same tactics to fatigue. He presented a harmless issue to trip his adversary and amuse the audience, or, in other words, used a misstatement as a decoy. This scheme he practiced on Gen. Speed S. Fry.

The General was sent to Casey county to fill some appointments, and he and Wolford met in joint debate. Fry spoke first, and Wolford followed him, and in describing the outrages and cornelty practiced by the carpet-baggers at the close of the war he was especially severe on the authorities for hanging Jefferson Davis and Robt. E. Lee.

Fry listened for a while in amazement and finally, unable to restrain himself longer, he arose to his feet, interrupted Wolford, and denied that Davis and Lee had been hanged. Wolford replied that they were living and in the enjoyment of their freedom. Wolford let him conclude his statement, and then addressing the audience again said it was not the first time he had heard this denial. It was the way of Republican speakers to deny all the enrelty of which they had been guilty in the South. He was not in the habit of making statements that could not be substantiated, and, fortunately, he had proof at hand to establish what he had said about the treatment of Davis and Lee. There were men present under the sound of his voice who were present and eye-witnesses to the facts, and, as his veracity had been questioned by the denial of Gen. Fry, he would ask them to stand up and say whether or not it was true.

"You, Jim, were a soldier; state whether or not you were present at the time?" Jim arose promptly and testified that "He was thar and it was a fact." "And what do you know about it, John?" inquired Wolford of another. "It is the God's truth, Colonel, I was right there, and saw'm when they tied the rope." One and another arose in the crowd and gave testimony to the same effect.

Fry was a Presbyterian elder, and it was a little more than he could stand and hear in silence. He mounted his horse, and in righteous indignation turned his back upon the crowd, and left the county, declaring that he would never again be guilty of the folly of engaging in debate with Frank Wolford.

The Blunder of Imperialism.

[Springfield, Mass., Republican.]

We start out on our imperial career with a military burden exceeding that of the great colonial powers of Europe, and there remains to be added the entire cost of the additional military establishment called for by the new policy and the cost of the new pension liability. We have established a precedent in pension liberality which the politicians will not lightly permit to be overthrown, but which, as applied to imperialist conditions, will bring upon the nation treasury a burden of staggering weight.

A Story of the Battlefield of Chickamauga.

On a stormy night in November about the year 1825, an emigrant from North Carolina on his way to Tennessee camped at an Indian village in North Georgia near where the famous battle of Chickamauga was fought in 1863, on the ground now constituting the Chickamauga-Chattanooga National Military Park.

In this emigrant's family was a girl just approaching womanhood. During the night this girl was attacked with violent cramps. As old squaw saw the girl's suffering, detected the cause, retired to her wigwam and selecting some herbs made a tea which was given to the sufferer. Relief from pain followed and the girl's menses appeared for the first time. The grateful mother of the girl begged of the squaw a quantity of the herbs, and among them found some seeds which she planted at her new home in Tennessee. These herbs were raised by this family and their descendants from year to year for several generations and gained a local reputation as a cure for menstrual derangements of women.

In the year 1880 the Chattanooga Medicine Co., manufacturers of Thedford's Black-Draught, the great remedy for liver, stomach, bowel and kidney diseases, secured control of the herbs that had descended from stock procured from the young squaw and commenced the manufacture from them of what is now known as McElree's Wine of Cardui. This pure vegetable wine now has a world-wide reputation and has proved to be almost a specific in the cure of all diseases peculiar to women. It is sold extensively in every state and territory of the Union and in some foreign countries, and is unanimously endorsed by leading physicians, prominent druggists and obstetrics and thousands of the best women of America.

Red-Headed Bill.

If a young lady has red hair, it is auburn, but if her brother has red hair, he is "red-headed Bill." If the young lady has a four dollar position in a store, it is a position, but if Bill has the same place, he has only a "job."

Elections This Year.

Elections will be held in November of this year in the following States:

While these elections occur in only one quarter of the Union, they are so scattered as to afford a fair test of public opinion in nearly every quarter of the United States.

Too Vulgar.

Tommy—I'm going to begin common fractions to-morrow, ma.

Mother—You shall do nothing of the kind, Tommy. You shall study the very best fractions they have in the school.

Dewey's Way.

[Leslie's weekly:]

Admiral Dewey is not, like Napoleon, a woman hater, although many naval officers' wives are almost convinced to the contrary. The Admiral does not believe in the fad that he believes the presence of a women interferes with a men's efficiency as an officer in war time. Many officers' wives, as soon as they became convinced that their husbands were remaining an indefinite period at Manila, lost no time in hurrying over to join them, and some, 'tis said, even though their husbands cabled "No" to their petitions. The Admiral did not look with favor upon their arrival, for to his mind it meant impaired efficiency in some of his best officers. They came, however, and before the outbreak of hostilities between the insurgents and the Americans, dances and yacht excursions in the bay and up the Pasig River became quite frequent, even the Admiral himself giving a large ball on the Olympia. He, however, always maintained his position, and no woman was allowed aboard ship when she went to see or during the subsequent period when the fleet was in battle array around Manila Bay.

The young lady, engaged in newspaper work, drew heavily on the different ships' junior officers, who fell victims to her charms. It became quite a daily occurrence among the officers to, in turn, take her driving in the cool of the afternoon. As the principal drives of interest lay in close proximity to the firing lines, the excursion was not without the element of danger so dear to the heart of both officers and adventurous women. The Admiral looked on for some time in silence, but eventually, meeting the fair charmer one day, reproached her for taking such risks, thinking perhaps in this way to stem the practice so rapidly becoming popular among his men. The young lady promptly replied that she was not at all afraid of bullets when protected by one of Dewey's officers.

"Well," replied the Admiral, "if you do not object to being killed, I have nothing to say, but I cannot spare any of my men."

The young lady does not know yet whether this was a compliment or a reproach.

Cruelty.

[Indianapolis Journal.]

"And, by the way, brother," asked the minister who had been called in to smooth the pathway of the expiring pioneer, "were all those bear stories the truth?"

The old man open his eyes.

"Parson," said he, "that's a mighty mean advantage to take of a dyin' man."

A Frugal Soul.

[Chicago Record.]

"Where's your bottle of cough medicine, Josiah?"

"What do you want with it?"

"Well, you won't take it, and, as it cost sixty-five cents, it shan't be wasted. I'm going to polish the piano with it."

TRAMPS MADE OF TROOPS.

Our Brave Soldiers Turned Loose in Porto Rico, Penniless and Begging Bread.

The woful mismanagement of the army was never better illustrated than in the following dispatch by the Associated Press:

SAN JUAN, PORTO RICO, May 13.—Hundreds of discharged American volunteers, penniless and practically thrown into the streets through Washington negligence, have become a source of apprehension to the authorities here. It would take but little to start a desperate movement.

About April 15 nearly a thousand soldiers had been discharged. The expectation of leaving soon for the States on army transports, made them careless about expenditures and ere long their money was gone. Days of waiting for transports lengthened into weeks, and for the last ten days, several hundred men have been without money.

SLEEP OUT DOORS WHEREVER THEY CAN.

They are compelled to sleep out of doors wherever they can. Night after night the wharves and quartermasters' yards are dotted with sleeping soldiers. Those able to find a tarpaulin covering a pile of goods are considered lucky.

They are exposed to the heavy dews of the climate and often are awakened by a tropical rain. In the morning they wander through the streets, wet and disheveled, searching for a breakfast.

Gen. Henry finally ordered the barracks opened to them, so they might have food and lodging, but the San Juan barracks are crowded with the regular garrisons, and though the officers have been willing to assist the unfortunates men they have often been unable to do so.

Republican Progeny.

"Can any good come out of Egypt?" Can any sincerity of purpose be extracted from Republican opposition to trusts? asks the St. Louis Republican.

The people know the facts. They know that trusts are the natural growth of the Republican policy. They know that the class legislation fostered and manifested by the Republican party for nearly forty years has bred trusts as surely as filth breeds disease. They know that the legislative robbery of the many for the enrichment of the few which the Republican party has practiced since the Morrill tariff was fastened upon the tax-payers, is a government authorization and encouragement for combines to seize the sources of production and monopolize the avenues of trade.

The people remember that the last platform of the Republican party breathed not one word of condemnation against trusts. They recall that a large part of the campaign fund used in electing the present administration was contributed by individuals and corporations most active in the formation, operation and extension of trusts.

The people are informed of the trust proclivities and have observed the promotion of trusts by the Republican politicians. They cannot look with confidence upon any protestations of reform or any such remedy coming from Republican sources. They are not inclined to trust Greeks bearing gifts. The people realize they must look for relief to the Democratic party.

The Nichols-Shepard Separator

The essential points in a Separator are capacity, thoroughness of separation, and simplicity and durability of construction. On each of these points the Nichols-Shepard Separator has great advantage over all other threshing machines. Any one of the nine sizes will thresh more and save more grain than the corresponding size of any other separator. The Nichols-Shepard Separator is as strongly, simply, yet perfectly made as a separator can be. The work of separation is done without the aid of pickers, raddles, forks, or other complicated parts that in other machines cause continual bother and expense by breaking or wearing out.

This shows the Nichols-Shepard Self-feeder loaded and ready for the cross.
